Fire Destroys 5-Room Home West Of Orland

Fire, as of yet undetermined origin, destroyed the Roy Lepitre home on 158th st., West of Wolf rd, near Orland Park Saturday night while the family was away from home.

The alarm came in to the Orland Park fire department at 10:06, apparently from a neighbor, and a few minutes another phone call came into fire headquarters, this one made by Fire Chief Robert Rust who was driving along Wolf road.

According to Orland Fire Chief Art Granat, who was in charge, the entire living room was blazing by the time fire equipment could reach the scene. In half an hour, however, the blaze was under control but not before the house was practically destroyed. There seemed to be more fire in front than at the rear of the dwelling, according to spectators.

Chief Granat said that wiring could not be blamed and he did not believe spontaneous combustion could have been the cause. He is investigating in an endeavor to establish the origin of the fire.

The Orland Park district called Mokena, Homer and Palos Park and firemen from those communities were at the scene quickly to give assistance.

The home was a five room, frame structure with an attached garage. All the contents were burned or damaged by smoke and water.

Stolen Truck Set On Fire

At about 9 p.m., Nov. 6, a truck belonging to Ed Feeley, builder, Arbury Hills, was apparently set on fire at 189th and 104th ave., Mokena.

Kurt Gerdel was driving Larry Spies home to Mokena, when they came upon the burning truck; the boys returned to the Gerdel farm where they phoned the police and then returned to the truck with a fire extinguisher. The truck was completely ablaze upon their return. The Mokena fire department was at the scene and extinguished the blaze.

The 3/4 ton truck had been stolen from the storage lot at 193rd and Rt. 45 - a cable had been cut which extended across the gateway. Tools were strewn across the highway and upon further investigation, it was discovered that two portable generators had also been stolen.

The interior of the truck was completely destroyed. Gasoline had been poured on the interior and set on fire. Several suspects have been questioned.

Valuations Hiked Too High, Says Frankfort Assessor

Contending that the multiplier applied by the Will county treasurer to his assessments makes them too high, Frankfort Assessor Harold Smith, has filed a letter with the board of review asking that this multiplier be removed and his assessments be allowed to stand.

Assessor Smith voiced his protest in a letter directed to Edward Liberty, Jr., chairman of the Will county board of supervisors and as such is chairman of the board of review.

The board of review is a body set up, as it name implies, to review assessments of real and personal property, hear complaints by taxpayers and make adjustments in valuations if it finds such justified.

According to state law real estate is reassessed every four years. The year in which this is done is called the quadrennial year. This is the quadrennial year for Will county. Unless improvements are made in the intervening years the assessments made in the quadrennial year remain in force until the next re-assessment.

The state department of revenue, which is the boss over assessments -- downstate at least -- has decreed that real estate should be valued at from 50 to 55 per cent of its fair market value as its full assessed valuation. If a county falls below this the state revenue department has authority to assign a multiplier which is supposed to bring the valuations up to between 50 and 55 per cent.

It is Assessor Smith's contention that his original assessments are around the 55 per cent mark and therefore the multiplier used on his figures by the treasurer, a factor of 1.109, boosts them beyond the amount decreed by the state.

On the other hand, it was pointed out in behalf of the treasurer's action that the state department of revenue was dissatisfied with the original assessments as set forth on the assessors' books -- taking the county as a whole -- and was prepared to assign a factor of 1.570 that would have been applied to all townships. If this had happened Frankfort township would have had its valuations multiplied by 1.57 instead of 1.109, or an increase of 30 per cent.

Mr. Smith's letter to Liberty, reads as follows:

"This letter is to confirm verbal protest of the multiplier of 1.109 applied to my assessments of property in Frankfort Township by J. Leo Waldvogel, treasurer of Will county and ex-officio supervisor of assessments for this county. This protest was made jointly by myself as a taxpayer and assessor of Frankfort township, and by George Tate as a taxpayer and supervisor of Frankfort township in behalf of all property owners of Frankfort township, to you as chairman of the Will county board of review and Mr. Rademacher, a member of the Will county board of review on Nov. 1, 1963.

Mokena PMA Local To Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting and dinner of the Mokena local of Pure Milk Association will be held Tuesday, Nov. 19, at 7 p.m., at St. John's United Church of Christ at Mokena.

Featured speaker will be A. W. Smithberger, membership and public relations department of PMA, according to an announcement by Edward C. Tewes, Rt. 1, Frankfort, and Richard Erickson, Rt. 1, Mokena. Tewes and Erickson are president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Mokena local.

Election of officers for the year ahead is scheduled.

"I, as assessor, feel that I followed the instructions given to all assessors at our 1963 meetings conducted by J. Leo Waldvogel. We were given six classifications of farm land capability classes and assessed values to be used in our 1963 quadrennial assessment. I re-valued all farm land in my township according to these instructions. I re-measured and figured all buildings in the township and priced them according to the state of Illinois real property assessment manual as put out by the Department of Revenue, property tax division, and depreciated them according to the depreciation tables shown therein. All of this was done in accordance with instructions given by the treasurer of Will county, Leo J. Waldvogel, ex-officio supervisor of assessments. This re-valuation added over $2,000,000 to my assessment books over the previous year with very little building going on in this Township.

"I, therefore, ask that this multiplier be removed from Frankfort township which would amount to approximately another $2,250,000, and that assessments as submitted in my books and supported by my individual property cards be used for Frankfort township for this quadrennial year 1963.

"To further support this request, I ask that the board of review of Will county make a spot check of as many pieces of property in Frankfort township to prove my request for removal of this multiplier entirely as now applied to my assessments."

The letter is signed by Mr. Smith in his official capacity as assessor of Frankfort township.

Last Friday night a meeting was held at Peotone by disgruntled property owners and Attorney Thomas Clinton was retained to present blanket protests to the board of review covering residents of New Lenox, Peotone, Manhattan, Jackson, Will and Wilton townships who declare that the assessed valuations as appear against their property in the recent lists published are excessive.

This action was taken, Mr. Clinton said, to preserve the rights of all real estate owners in these townships to ensure proper valuations of their property.

Persons who do not wish to be included in the blanket protest in the townships named may say so in a letter to the board of review, Clinton said, and added that individuals who have filed protests already, or if they wish to file as individuals, or if they are satisfied and have no wish to protest, are not hampered by the blanket protest.

The attorney said that he has been informed by Mr. Liberty that he and the review body were ready to meet with the protestors at the courthouse to discuss the situation and endeavor to arrive at a figure acceptable to the people and the department of revenue and at the same time preserve a factor of one for the county.

A factor of one, it was explained, means that the assessed valuation as it appears in the published lists would stand and not be subject to multiplication. If, for example, the department of revenue fixed the factor for Will county at two, then the assessed valuation on the books would be multiplied by two and the resultant figure would be known as the equalized valuation. There have been years in the past when the multiplier in Will county has been as high as six and a fraction.

In the case of Frankfort township the multiplier Mr. Smith complains of, 1.109, would mean that if he has assessed a property at $10,000, the factor imposed by the county treasurer, would raise that valuation to $11,090.

Attorney Clinton states that the multiplier imposed by the treasurer varies in different townships that he represents. For instance Manhattan had a multiplier of 1.450, which means that a $10,000 valuation there would have been upped to $14,500. In New Lenox the multiplier it has drawn is 1.275, which means that a $10,000 valuation has now become $12,750. In Wilton township the multiplier set is 1.416; in Will township it is the same as in New Lenox, 1.275 while the figure for Peotone was 1.378, which would hike a $10,000 valuation to $13,780.

The department of revenue has not made official announcement yet as to the factor to be assigned Will county, it was stated. Should the department feel so inclined, it was pointed out, it could give Will county a multiplier in excess of one which would boost all the valuations.

Some years ago when the county was given a multiplier of almost seven, county officials had a difficult time in even getting the attention of the department of revenue to protest, it was recalled by some of those protesting assessments now.

Forest Preserve Buys TPA Land For $544,983

(CNS) -The Cook county board last week authorized over half a million dollars for the purchase of 184.74 acres east of Tinley Park to be used for forest preserve.

The property was acquired by the preserve thru condemnation proceedings against the Tinley Park Associates, Inc., and other owners.

The total "equitable price" for property is $544,983, which Charles Sauer, superintendent of the district called "a good price."

The property, which is bounded by the village of Tinley Park on the west; the Rock Island R.O.W. on the North; 175th

St. on the south and a line 1/4th mile west of Central, will be used as a forest preserve, available in "about four or five years", according to Sauer. He said planting will begin in the Spring.

In other action, the County Board authorized the purchase of 40 acres located north of 120th St., east of Avenue S in Hyde Park township.

The forest preserve owns property adjoining the new acquisition to be purchased from Charles G. Shedd.

Sauer said no appraisal of the costs of the purchase have been made yet.

Three Neighbors Operate Candlemaking Business

Exhibiting this week at the Lombard Antique show will be one of Will county's newest and most successful businesses, the Marley Candle Company. From its inception just a year ago this enterprising business has developed a unique and saleable product - candles made in antique-type molds.

The Marley Candle Co. was started because its three owners were interested in antiques. It was the purchase of an antique candle mold by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Berg that started the candle idea. Jean Berg and her neighbors, Janellen Little and Eleanor Nelson decided to try and make candles in the old-fashioned way.

This did not prove to be as easy as it had seemed. They had to pour over old books for wax mixtures, coloring stuffs and wicks that would duplicate the hand-crafted candles of early days.

By the time they had developed a luminous, dripless candle that captured the look of old candles while at the same time being made from materials available today, they had developed their own exclusive formula with the added dimension of scent in the wax.

Friends and neighbors started ordering candles made in the candle shop located in the basement of the Nelson home (known as the Candle Cellar). Soon the authentic early American-type candles came to the attention of antique circles and the group was asked to exhibit at nearby antique shows.

Now six shows later, the company has more orders than it can comfortably fill. The candles are sold in 10 stores within a 50-mile radius of Marley and public acclaim has made the founders realize that there is a big demand for candles to display with authentic period furnishings.

Most popular has been the unique old-type taper in two colors, shading from light to dark tones. Also in demand are the decorator-type candles to use as room accents. Many dramatic effects have been achieved by the three women working with candles and the antique objects with which they display them.

Future plans of the Marley Candle Co. are still in the dreaming stage, but owners Berg, Little and Nelson would like to open their own shop to sell candles and antiques. The shop would be located in Marley. The owners also hope to be able to procure more antique-type molds so they can produce more candles. With their present working methods no speed-up in production is possible.

The welcome mat is always out for visitors at the Marley Candle Cellar. Driving west from Mokena it is located on the first street off the Marley Road beyond Willow Run Country club. Candles and ways of using them are on display. Candles from the Cellar have traveled as far as England, Wales and South Africa as gifts from travelers. Visitors to the Joliet library this month may also see a display of Marley candles in the feature display case.

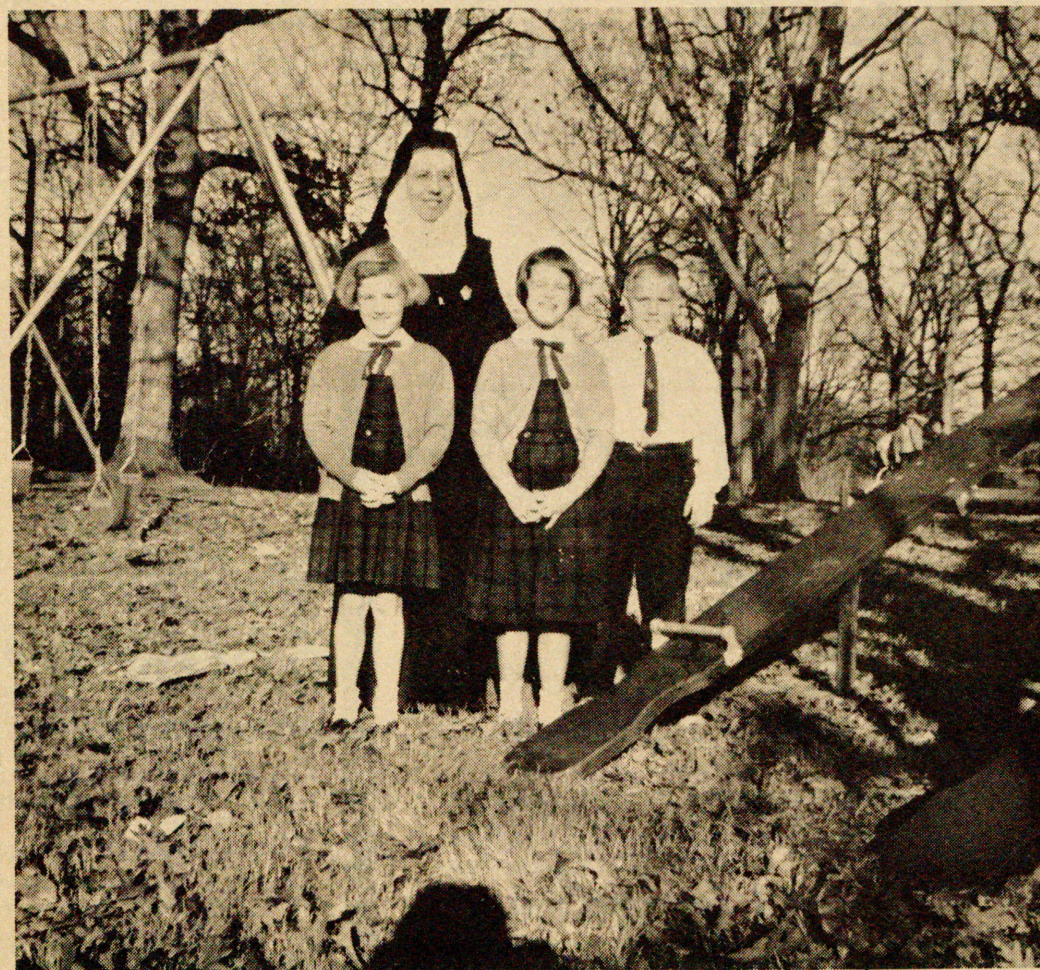

Will Celebrate Diamond Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Heiman, Tinley Park road, Mokena, will quietly observe their 60th wedding anniversary, Friday, Nov. 15.

They were married in Chicago Heights at St. Agnes church. They moved to Mokena from Chicago in 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. Heiman have three children; Alfred of Plainfield, Richard and Mrs. George Rinke of Mokena. They have eleven grandchildren and nineteen great-grandchildren.

Mr. Heiman was in the heating and plumbing business in this area until he retired 13 years ago.

NEW EQUIPMENT for the St. Jude school playground at New Lenox has been installed by the Parents club and is a welcome addition to the grounds. The children here (l to r) are: Vicki Huttenhoff, Kathy Carnahan and Gary Huttenhoff. The nun is Sister M. Evelyn, C.M.F. Men members of the club were thanked for their efforts in installing the playground equipment at the Nov. 7 meeting of the Parents club. The November barbecue is to be held Thursday, Nov. 21, Luncheon chairmen are Mrs. Shirley Huttenhoff and Mrs. Marge Carnahan.

PURCHASE OF ANTIQUE candle mold starts business at Marley. And as one would imagine this business deals in the manufacture and sale of candles of all--or practically all--shapes and sizes, a variety of which are to be shown this week at the Lombard Antique show. The three partners, all neighbors (l to r) are, Mrs. Eleanor Nelson, Mrs. Jean Berg and Mrs. Janellen Little. There plant is in the basement of the Nelson home and is known as the Candle Cellar. Constable Is Named In $200,000 Suit

(CNS) - A $200,000 false arrest suit was filed in superior court Friday against a Cook county constable who arrested the wrong man.

The suit charges that Constable George H. Brier, of 9300 S. 73rd Ave., Oak Lawn, arrested Earle James Harper, of 9200 S. Central, Oak Lawn, on a warrant issued by Stickney township Justice of the Peace Edwin A. Kwiat, on June 13, 1962.

The suit claims that the warrant, on a bad check charge, was for an Earl Harper, not Earle James Harper, and that Brier refused to accept the plaintiff's credentials.

Harper was taken to the Oak Lawn Police Station and held until the complaining witness appeared three hours later and validated the error.

The suit, filed by attorney William R. Dunn, asks $100,000 damages and $100,000 for exemplary damages for "disgrace and humiliation."

The Lincoln Log

Since this is American Education week, it seems fitting to take a look at some of the activities Lincoln-Way High School planned to celebrate the week. And in the process maybe we will be permitted to talk a little "plain talk" about this business of education.

Yesterday and today, many parents took advantage of the visitation offer extended by Lincoln-Way and toured the new and the older parts of the building. After this tour, guided by Future Teachers of America members, parents sat in on classes and observed the education process in action. Refreshments capped off the visitation.

American Education week was set aside in 1921 as a result of the shocking illiteracy rate discovered during World War I. Representatives of the National Education Association and the American Legion recognized the need for more emphasis on education and AEW was part of their overall plan. It always occurs during the week in which Veteran's Day falls. We like to think that through education we can bring the thinking man above the level of global armies and mass destruction when disagreement and intelligent communication breaks down.

Probably, one of the most important things education hopes to achieve is to teach students the art of thinking. To enjoy freedom and fully realize its value, citizenship must be an important part of our educational process. And good citizenship is not possible without thinking people.

Millicent C. McIntosh, former president of Barnard College, said, "The teacher is at long last coming into his own. After a century of lip service given to his importance, the American people finally have begun to understand that good education underlies everything we stand for and hold dear. They have also become increasingly aware that education is not produced by new buildings or elaborate equipment alone. Reluctantly but finally, they realize that true learning cannot take place without fine teachers, and that the teaching profession will not survive where it is held in low esteem and grossly underpaid in relation to other learned callings."

The L-W Area Teachers Association will hear a distinguished panel discuss professional ethics next Monday in Manhattan. Panel members will be Gordon Bedford, lawyer, Joliet; Dr. Lawrence Lee, physician, Manhattan; Ernest Moore, Jr.,

Here's Chance To Save Money

Mokena motorists will have a chance to save $2 next month. On Dec. 1 the 1964 village automobile stickers will go on sale, it was announced by Trustee Clarence Zugenbuehler and the price will be $3 thru December.

Beginning Jan. 1, price of the stickers will be $5, thus early buyers will save money.

Hold Funeral For Father Of Orland Resident

Funeral services for George Thoms, Sr., of Blue Island, father of George Thoms, Jr., of Orland, were held Nov. 2 from St. Benedict's church, Blue Island, with burial in the church cemetery.

Mr. Thoms suffered a stroke and died at St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, Oct. 30. He had been a Blue Island resident 50 years.

Besides his son Mr. Thoms is survived by a sister, Mrs. Emma Benck, of Palos Heights two brothers, Charles and Louis, of Blue Island; four grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Thoms recognized as an excellent gardener and was employed as such at Oak Forest hospital for many years.

Burglar Taps Gift Shop At Valley View

The Thunderbird Gift Shop, off U.S. 30 on Valley View farm was burglarized over the weekend but the loss has not yet been listed, according to the report at the sheriff's office Tuesday.

The owner of the shop, J. A. Prevo, who lives in Frankfort township, discovered the break-in when he opened the shop Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock. He told Investigator August Schulke and Deputy Sheriff Cliff Bank that he had closed the shop at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening.

Prevo said he would have to take inventory to determine his loss, the report states.

architect, Joliet; and Dr. Donald Strong, elementary school superintendent, Joliet.

Friday, Nov. 22, the Lincoln-Way Chorus will be on tour. Approximately 155 students will be included in this trip which will display the singing talent in Mr. Tom Olson's singing groups.

"What steps," a question in a college exam read, "would you take in determining the height of a building, using an aneroid barometer?"

To which one student, short on knowledge, but long on ingenuity, replied, "I would lower the barometer on a string and measure the string."

Resident To Get Sewer By Annexing To Mokena

At the meeting of the Mokena village board last week Robert Niemann and the trustees reached an agreement under which Niemann could make a connection with the sewer by annexing to the village and paying half of the cost.

The project would cover the installation of approximately 175 feet of 6-inch main. This will extend the main across LaPorte road.

Mayor Charles Swanberg said that Village Engineer Ralph Yunker estimated that the 6-inch main would cost about $4 a running foot, installed, which would make the cost about $700. Niemann said he would pay half and agreed to file a petition for annexation at the next board meeting. He is to meet with Village Attorney Ronald Galovich to prepare the necessary papers. As soon as the preliminaries are disposed of the village will take bids on the sewer extension as soon as possible.

Sandburg High Seeks Additional Lay Readers

Miss Ruth Bardwick, chairman of the English department at Carl Sandburg, announced this week that she would like to have additional lay readers this school year.

The lay reader program, being expanded this year, is designed to assist classroom teachers in correcting themes.

Students at Sandburg write one theme each week, Miss Bardwick explained, and each teacher has about 120 papers to read each weekend. Lay readers are given one set of these papers each week and correct them for mechanical errors. They are paid 25 cents for each paper and $1.50 per hour for conferences with the instructor.

"The program has been very effective," Miss Bardwick said. "We have found that both students and teachers are pleased with it and the quality of the writing tends to be higher, too."

In addition to securing additional lay readers, the department is bringing the files up to date. "We have some names in our files at present, but I am not sure the people still want to read for us," Miss Bardwick said. "If those people who registered earlier will call, we can keep our files current."

To qualify as a lay reader, the applicant must have earned a B.A. degree, preferably in English, and pass a grammar test set up by the school. All persons interested in becoming part of this program, call Carl Sandburg (Gibson 8-1520) and leave their names. New applicants will be notified of the time for the test and registration.

Drunken Driver In Crash Is Fined, Loses License

Harold E. Schmidt, 54, a farm worker in Frankfort township, lost his license Tuesday and was fined $100 and costs when arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Sangmeister on a charge of drunken driving.

Schmidt was arrested Saturday night by State Trooper Ronald Elder after a two-car collision on U.S. 45 near Arbury Hills. The accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock.

According to witnesses, the report states, Schmidt's car, south bound veered across the center lane and struck a north-bound car driven by Edward F. Young, 47, of 530 Second st., Lockport. The trooper said witnesses also informed him that prior to the collision Schmidt had been weaving back and forth across the highway with his car.

He was given a drunk-o-meter test at the Joliet city police station and flunked it. He registered a reading of .28. The maximum allowed for driving is .15. Trooper Elder then took Schmidt to the Will county jail where he was locked up.

He was brought into court at Joliet Tuesday, pleaded guilty and his license has been picked up and sent to Springfield by Judge Sangmeister.

Schmidt suffered minor injuries as did Young, Mrs. Young and two passengers in the Young car, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Endecavagh of Lemont. All were treated at Silver Cross hospital and released.

Add More Than 600 Books To Sandburg HS Library

More than 10,000 hours of reading have been added to the shelves of the Carl Sandburg High School library since last spring.

That is the estimate of Edward Newren, head librarian at Carl Sandburg. "In addition to keeping the library open for student use last summer, we were busy cataloging and shelving the more than 600 books we have added. These represent slightly more than half our book order for the year," Newren said.

About 40 per cent of the books are non-fiction; 25 per cent, fiction; 20 per cent reference books; and 10 per cent are professional books for the faculty, Newren said.

Altho the subject matter varies widely, the new books include a number about Russian communism and the American Indian.

"Most libraries follow a philosophy of centering their collection of books around a major point of interest. We have two: the future and the past," Newren said.

"We feel our students need to be aware of communism and understand it because the United States and Russia will be either great enemies or friends in the future. The American Indian is a part of our past which still has importance for our readers today. Therefore, we try to emphasize these two areas in our collection," he said.

Included among the non-fiction acquisitions are: "Beyond the Chains of Illusion by Fromm," "Democracy's Manifesto," by Douglas, "Trends in Modern American Society," by Morris, "The Soviet History of World War II," and "Castro's Cuba" by Rivero.

New fiction includes "Ship of Fools," by Porter, "The Horsecatcher," by Sandoz, "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," by Solzhenitsyn, "The Karting Crowd," by Summers, and "The Moon - Spinners," by Stewart.

The Sandburg library also has a complete set of the Great Books series and the Harvard Classics. The Great Books series is catalogued according to the Dewey decimal system, the Harvard Classics are kept as a group, Newren said that "students can be exposed to these great books either through the card catalog or by becoming interested in the collection."

Newren, who has been at Sandburg for the past four years, has a masters degree in library science from Chicago Teachers' College and a bachelors from DePaul University. Before coming to Sandburg, he was librarian at Aurora West High School.

Marley Pastor Returns From African Journey

BY VIRGINIA SASS

The Rev. Ian F. Brown, pastor of the Marley Baptist Community church, returned home Saturday, Oct. 26, from a 20,000 mile journey which took him to his native home town, Capetown, South Africa and back. This was his first trip home after coming to the United States in 1953 to study at the University of Chicago.

Rev. Brown left O'Hare Field on Sunday evening, Sept. 29 and arrived at Capetown in time to help his father, Fred Brown of Drew, Cape Province, celebrate his 76th birthday anniversary. While in Capetown, he was a guest in the home of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Swanepoel and their four children. On Oct. 19, he attended the wedding of Miss Sarle Jonker and his brother Brian Brown. Also while in Capetown, the Rev. Mr. Brown had the pleasure of preaching in his home church, the Wynberg Baptist church.

Capetown, a seaport, with a population of 700,000, is located at the southern tip of Africa in the Cape Province, Republic of S. Africa. The Republic of S.

Sandra Carol Gregory of 308 Hillside rd. is one of the students who will present Dad's Day Revue at the University of Illinois.

Daniel Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Walker, is a new member of the Student News and Information Bureau (SNIB) at the University of Illinois. He is a member of the photography section of SNIB and his duties include taking, developing and printing pictures of agriculture and home economics student activities.

Besides serving on the rush committee for Acacia fraternity his campus home, Walker is active in the Hoof and Horn club.

Africa. The flight took him over beautiful Lake Victoria and over the highest point in Africa, Mt. Kilimanjaro, 19,728 feet above sea level. En route to Capetown, during an eight hour stop-over in London, the Rev. Mr. Brown toured Westminster Abbey.

He left Capetown to return home on Wednesday, Oct. 23. He spent one day with friends at Johannesburg, 1,000 miles north of Capetown. He spent one day in Rome where he enjoyed two tours -- one of the Sistine Chapel and the Vatican Museum and the other of ancient Rome, which includes the Coliseum and the Forum. He left Rome at 5:30 Saturday morning, Oct. 26 and after a 3 1/2 hour stopover in London and a brief stop-over in New York, arrived at O'Hare Field at 4:17 in the afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Brown will re-member Oct. 26, 1963 as his "longest day" -- having to turn his clock back three hours in London, six hours in New York, two hours in Chicago, and one more hour to return to standard time with the folks at home on Saturday night.

Some People Don't Like High Taxes

The winds of public feeling concerning the tax problem are growing -- and on occasion they reach gale force.

On Oct. 15, the voters of the State of Oregon provided dramatic proof of that. The last session of the Oregon legislature voted in a tax bill increasing state revenues for the biennium by some $64 million -- a very large sum for a state with a population of well under 2 million people. The money was to be raised by various devices, one being elimination of federal income tax payments as a deduction against the heavy state income tax.

Under a unique Oregon law, such measures as this can be referred to popular vote, if a sufficient number of signatures can be raised by petition. A smalltown newspaper publisher undertook the task. He was virtually without resources -- it was doubtful if sufficient funds were available to even pay the printing bills. Time was very short. And when the petitions did appear, there was no effective organization to bring them to the attention of the voters. One literally had to look for a petition if one wanted to sign it. So, there was a widespread belief that there was small chance of obtaining the 23,000 valid signatures needed to bring the referendum about.

The result: More than twice the needed number were obtained. Then according to law, the special election, in which the new tax bill would be the one and only issue to be voted upon, was called.

With this first long step taken, the campaigns for and against the bill began and swiftly gathered momentum. And, from the campaign's brief history and conclusion, an extremely significant moral may be drawn.

The prime argument on behalf of the bill was that it was essential in order to maintain the state's standards of higher education and to provide for welfare commitments and programs. And the forces that were mobilized on its side were tremendously impressive. They also were closely organized, well-financed forces, with adequate means of bringing their side of the story to all concerned. They included all the principal executive and administrative officers of the Oregon government and the great majority of members of the legislature; the state's principal newspapers, and most if not all of the leading labor, educational, agricultural, business and civic groups and organizations. Radio and TV coverage, while time was given to both sides, seemed definitely weighted in favor of the bill.

The opposition, on the other hand, was almost pitifully scattered and disorganized. It consisted, so far as one could see, of a few dedicated volunteers whose message was that the necessary activities of the state of Oregon -- including the maintenance of higher education and legitimate welfare responsibilities -- could be carried on without this bill, if the state would follow a program of economy in all the nonessentials, and in obtaining greater return for each dollar spent on essentials.

The ultimate result, after all the shooting ended: The bill wasn't just defeated, it was slaughtered, by a margin of more than three to one.

It can be argued, of course, that this was just the verdict in one state and that it doesn't necessarily indicate that national sentiment would, if given the chance at the polls, follow the same pattern. But that is a frail argument. From all one can learn -- including the findings of public opinion polls which have proven remarkably accurate on many past occasions -- the public feeling toward ever-increasing taxes is reaching the dimensions of revolt. This does not mean that the people are against high educational standards, or against aid to the blind and sick and derelict, or against any basic function of economic and human value which can be provided only by some branch of government. But it does mean, unless all the signs are wrong, that the people are convinced that extravagance has reached great and destructive dimensions in government and must be curbed.

Safety In Corn Picking

With harvest on in full swing it is a good time to remind farm workers to be careful of those corn-pickers.

According to statistics furnished by O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois specialist in farm safety, 106 Illinois farmers were victims of accidents involving cornpickers last year and five of them are not around to talk about it.

Your cornpicker can be as safe as you want to make it, Mr. Hogsett says, and goes on to say that a safe picker is mechanically sound, well adjusted and operated properly.

It is the operation that counts. Follow the four safety tips Mr. Hogsett offers and you should be able to gather in the corn without injury. And here they are:

"NEVER be in a hurry. One of the biggest dangers with pickers comes when the operator gets in a hurry. Which is better -- to play it slow and safe or wind up in a hospital minus a hand or foot because you became careless while trying to hurry?

NEVER try to unclog, adjust, oil or grease your picker while it is running. ALWAYS SHUT OFF THE POWER BEFORE YOU DO ANY WORK ON THE MACHINE.

Don't run your cornpicker when you're tired. Many a hand or foot has been lost when a tired, irritated operator carelessly tried to unclog the rolls about dusk. Better quit early then get hurt because you are tired and careless. If possible, change operators once in a while and rest.

CARRY a fire extinguisher on the tractor. During cornpicking there's always some danger that the shucks may catch fire from a hot manifold. In case of fire, a good extinguisher would help save your tractor or picker.

Be wise -- economize by preventing cornpicker accidents through safe operation. It's just good business.

Hints For Homeowners

BY: JAMES FIZZELL,
ASSOCIATE FARM ADVISER
COOK COUNTY

Most rose gardeners are aware that hybrid roses are not 100 per cent hardy in this climate. How well a rose plant withstands winter weather depends on the condition of the plant, and the way in which low temperature occurs.

Plants that have had proper care throughout the growing season are more likely to withstand severe winters than unhealthy plants since healthy plants are able to manufacture the maximum amount of sugars and to mature properly.

Fluctuating winter temperatures are much harder on roses than consistently low temperatures.

In our climate these fluctuating temperatures predominate, so it is essential to give the plants protection which will serve, not to keep them warm, but to avoid sudden changes in temperature.

With small hybrid teas and floribundas, the best way is to mound up soil around the base of the plant. The pile of soil should be 8 to 10 inches high. Do this after the first killing frost, while the ground can still be worked. Be sure when gathering the soil around the plant not to expose any roots. It is probably better to bring soil from another part of the yard, than to risk damage to roots while scraping around among the roses. Hold the soil in place with tar-paper collars which fit around the plant.

If you do not have sufficient soil to cover your plants use mulching materials such as coarse peat, ground corn cobs, coarse vermiculite or straw. Prune back long canes on bush roses to keep them from being whipped about by winter winds.

Tree roses are quite susceptible to winter injury. In protected locations, the top can be wrapped with straw and covered with burlap.

In exposed locations, the plant should be pulled over to one side and covered with soil or straw. Do this by digging under the roots on one side until the plant can be pulled over without completely breaking all connections with the soil. Tie the end securely so it is not tossed about by winter winds.

Proper attention to preparing your roses for winter will insure that they will come through even the most severe winter in the best possible condition.

Now that the leaves have fallen, it is a good time to prune trees and fall blooming shrubs. Thin out about one-fourth of the oldest branches of the shrubs and cut back the remaining branches to a good size shoot or bud.

Remove the least desirable of any branches on the trees. Avoid narrow V-crotches on the trees. When one begins to develop, cut off one of the branches. Remove sucker growth on the inner portions of the large branches.

When removing large branches, cut upward (under cut) the branch three inches from the trunk. Then cut downward six inches from the trunk. When the branch falls, it will not split the trunk. Remove the remaining stub by cutting as close to the tree as possible. Tree wounds always heal from the sides in, not from the top and bottom. Because of this, an elliptical, vertical wound will heal faster than a round one. Paint any large wounds with asphalt base tree paint.

An excellent bulletin on pruning trees and shrubs is available free of charge from the Extension Service Office, 201 North Dunton Avenue, Arlington Heights, Ill.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Jefferson P. Throttlebottom, who has gained quite a reputation as a freeloader, is a great one for the seasons and frequently goes so far as to fit his mood or his garb to the time of year. It was not surprising then that when he ambled into the office the other day to see him dressed in hunting clothes.

With hunters banging away now it was not surprising to see Jeff wearing the garments favored by nimrods. He had no gun, of course, but then the kind of hunting he favors does not require a gun. But Mr. Throttlebottom is really quite a conventional person and when he hunts he wears hunting clothes even tho he is only hunting new sources of hospitality.

As a matter of fact Jeff has explained at various times that while a nice covey of bourbon would be to his liking he does not care for wild meat and since he also has a high regard for farmers, so why should he go shooting?

"There is also a personal reason why I refrain from hunting -- game that is," Jeff explained. "I like to be with people but I do not believe in going hunting with a group. Too dangerous and hunting alone can be dangerous too, as well as lonesome."

"The trouble with this group hunting," Jeff went on, "is that there is too much careless shooting. I don't know what there is about it but get a half a dozen or so fellows strung out in a line in a field with guns in their hands and you can generally count on one or two of them being trigger happy or over-zealous and will blaze away in any direction."

"One such experience should be sufficient for anyone. I can be hard to convince sometimes so I was present on two such occasions but was fortunate both times to be listed as a near miss."

"Grogan down at Kelly's saloon was telling me about a harrowing experience he had on a hunting trip several years ago. Grogan was next to one of the end guys and this bird shot at anything and everything that moved, Grogan said, and likewise of the chap at the other end."

"It was bad enough, Grogan told me, to keep watch on the man next to him and the one at the other end of the line, but what really shook him was the guy in the middle. He was crosseyed and Grogan couldn't tell from the direction he was looking which way he would be shooting."

"I haven't been hunting for several years," Jeff went on, "and certainly do not intend to press my luck. Especially after reading a piece in one of the dailies last week. It carried a Quebec headline and according to the story an alderman out hunting was shot by another hunter, who told authorities it was all a mistake on his part. He mistook the alderman for a partridge."

"I don't know what it is about hunting -- whether it's the fresh air, or what, but something seems to transform a person and makes him subject to hallucinations. Put the same man in a car and drive him around the country side. Point to things, ask him questions."

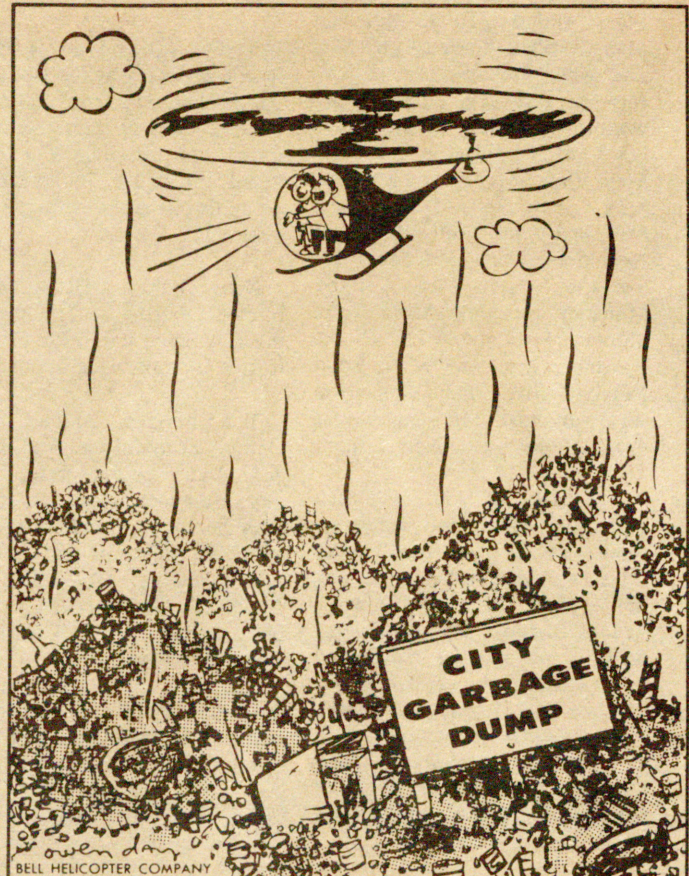

Point to a dog trotting across a field. What is that?, you ask, and he answers straight off, "A dog." Point to a cow, ask him what it is and you will get a prompt answer, "A cow." You will find him equally correct in identifying other things, such as a sheep, a chicken, a pig, a house, a child, a tree, a cat, a woman or a man.

"But dress him up in hunting clothes, give him a gun and put him out in a field or patch of timber. Then ask him the same questions but don't expect the same answers. Something happens to his mind or his eyes. Chickens may become quail or pheasants, which is not too far off perhaps inasmuch as they all have feathers. To call a dog a pheasant, however, is stretching it some."

"Now to me a house does not look anything like a deer but there have been hunters who have blasted doors and windows because they were certain that the house was a deer and what is more they swear it moved and was about to attack them."

"Cows, sheep, and pigs have four legs and so do cats so perhaps one can mistake them for deer, bear or buffalo, and every hunting season is marked by hunters shooting other hunters or landowners thru mistaking them for deer. I do not recollect ever seeing any men with four legs or antlers but I must admit that I haven't been every place and seen everything so maybe there are men so equip-

MONEY WELL SPENT?

Dear Sir: To discuss the U.S. Budget, for 1964, more space than there is in a month's issue of this newspaper, would be required. Therefore we must select a certain small part for a subject. A very insignificant and mostly unnoticed facet, is the money spent for brain-washing and the building of public opinion. This is being done with money drained from us by taxation. We buy the rope with which we are to be lynched. This cost of "rope" is hidden in various and asinine appropriations.

Here are a few studies for which we are paying -- Pre-hispanic Settlement Patterns of Teotihuacan, $16,500. Hybridization and Evolutionary Divergence in Tree-frogs, $5,500. Psycholinguistic Analysis of Consonant Clusters, $7,200. These are only a sampling of multitudinous blinks from which money can be siphoned.

The Information Agency (USIA) got an appropriation of 467 millions. It is directed by Edward R. Murrow. As a yard stick -- the state department received 396 millions. This gives us a good idea as to the cost of information dispensing. Mr. Murrow has not stuck to the truth while attempting to enlighten us or the rest of the world. This was proven by a film shown over-seas which depicted Iowa farmers starving to death. His explanation for this was--it effects a balance of opinion. Hog-wash, is this a new label for a lie?

There is an agency in Washington which is located near the state department. It is known as The Institute for Defense Analysis (IDA). It was started with a grant of $500,000 from the Ford Foundation. Now that it is firmly established, it is supported by contracts and works exclusively for the government. No appropriation is visible, so we must assume that funds are furnished by drawing a bit here and there from other allotments.

One contract covers work to be done for The U. S. Disarmament Administration. Red China is shown as the real threat to PEACE, while Nikita and Russia are the greatest peace lovers of all time. Unilateral disarmament is too justified. Dr. Halperin of IDA suggests that-even if Russia does not disarm, we should do so anyway.

Dr. Bloomfield, formerly of the state department's disarmament staff and presently Director of Arms Control projects at MIT, said in his IDA Research Memo, No. 3-- "Short

ped. "I may add that Quebec is one of the places I haven't been so am unfamiliar with the size, shape and habits of Canadian aldermen but if they follow the general pattern of American aldermen or English aldermen I have seen I do not believe I would confuse them with partridges. I have seen some aldermen that waddle like ducks, some that behave like sheep or trained seals, but none that look like partridges. On the other hand I have not seen any Quebec partridges. Maybe they are different."

Jeff stood up preparatory to departure. "Come to think about it," he said as he moved toward the door after shoving a handful of cigars and the better part of a pound of pipe tobacco into one of his capacious pockets, "I think I will go to my room and change clothes. I look too much like a hunter to be safe even in town. Someone may take me for a mallard."

There are many others who are blind to the dangers of a World Government and the false promises of "Ever-lasting PEACE". The Nuclear Bomb scare, fall-out shelters and the constant mentioning of horror warfare, has stunted the reasoning power thereby converting great masses of people to prefer "To be Red than Dead".

If, we had men in Washington (which we haven't) who were loyal AMERICANS, as of yore, our problems could be quickly and easily solved. The threats and dangers would soon evaporate. A firm unrelenting stand against Communism, removal of the subversive influences from government, stop all aid to our enemies, helping our friends and a determination to REMAIN FREE, would bring PEACE. Sanity, in our Policies, must be restored. Any other attitude (appeasement) shall certainly bring eventual disaster to OUR GREAT UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Patriotically yours, Henry W. Hicks, 11301 W. 155th St.

NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK Dear Sir: Nov. 10 thru the 16 will be observed thruout the United States as American Education Week. The main objective of American Education Week is to encourage the public to visit its schools and colleges. Thru this visitation both the accomplishments and problems of our educational system can be explained and discussed freely.

Education is more important today than it was 50 years ago. The people of that era were not forced to cope with the competition involved with the impact of science and technology. Therefore, the quality of the education we offer is indeed important.

To observe American Education Week Lincoln-Way's Future Teachers of America plan an "open house" Nov. 13 and 14. At this time the public is cordially invited to visit the school and observe "education in action".

The education presented by our schools will determine the future of our nation. The success of our schools depends on the public's interest in them.

Business & Finance

BY MAURICE P. ANGLAND

The current issue of Fortune magazine's Business Roundup reports that "three quarters of the manufacturers, retailers, and wholesalers queried, view their own business as good or very good -- the highest optimistic percentage in the past four years."

The column reports that retailers are especially pleased and a high percentage report plans for larger inventories and sales promotion plans. The producers of hard goods are reported as taking an aggressive production and merchandising line as against a cautious attitude six months ago. The column notes also that the new attitude is being reflected in budgets for expansion and improvement of production facilities.

The magazine expresses belief that the improvement in business expectations has not been fully translated into judgment about the economy as a whole. It goes on to state that the Gross National Product jumped by about $9 billion in the third quarter to over $598 billion -- the largest gain in almost two years and the current quarter is expected to show large an increase and possibly more. The GNP is expected to reach about $600 billion which is far more than expected by most business economists.

"The upsurge in the economy since mid-year has not been according to the economic text books on the business cycle, since the present cycle is supposed to be in its 'late stages'. The rising industrial pressures are building up to an extremely strong 1964!" It goes on point out that Federal Reserve production index for September was little larger than the August figure, but rose sharply as to October and probably "set an all-time high."

"Car sales in the first 10 days of October were running at a rate of over nine million, 5 per cent above the figure of a year ago, itself so big that Roundup then called it fabulous." The comment continues that few expect the rate to continue, but that it does indicate the pent-up demand after a summer slowing of acceleration. Used car inventories dropped to the lowest level in over a year which indicates the main demand is replacement. Roundup's calculations on the basis of scrapage, indicates a further rise ahead.

"Consumer buying is broadening from cars to other items, so that October sales were rising to a new high." Employment are expected to show a rise over the September figure which also showed a nice gain.

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday the Lincoln-Way Band Boosters meeting will be held a week earlier, Wednesday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. in the school. All parents having students in the cadet and concert bands are invited to attend.

Communities Use Many Tools In Pursuit Of Industries

(As told by Wayne A. Johnston, president, Illinois Central railroad and chairman, economic development committee, Illinois State Chamber of Commerce)

Illinois communities have employed a wide range of techniques in their successful efforts to lure new industry to their localities. Many of the community programs have been conceived and carried out under the auspices of the local chamber of commerce.

Illinois has been an innovator and a leader in the industrial development field for years. For example, the first successful organized industrial districts in the country were the Central Manufacturing District and the Clearing Industrial District of Chicago. Today these and a growing number of other industrial districts such as Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village, Pioneer Industrial Park in Peoria and Northlake Industrial District in Northlake are enjoying great success in providing attractive and efficient homes for industry throughout the state.

Danville was a successful pioneer in the use of organized industrial development foundations to provide funds for new industry. Its industrial development financing programs have played a part in bringing over 22 new industries to Danville during the past 34 years. The most recent fund drive in that community netted nearly one-half million dollars to be used for plant and site financing.

A recent state chamber survey revealed that at least 41 other Illinois communities have financing plans of some type in operation and still others have informal programs of financial incentives to industry. In recent years, such cities as Olney, Vandalia, DeQuoin and Casey have brought in industry as the result of loans or gifts made to industries from funds raised by public subscription. Soundly organized, energetically directed programs with strict adherence to the fundamentals have produced results in recent years for cities like Paris, Mattoon, Bloomington and Rockford.

LaSalle-Peru, Pinckneyville, Taylorville and other areas have achieved notable success in erecting attractive speculative buildings and then going out and finding a company to occupy them. Today, speculative buildings are available, under construction or in the planning stage in Clinton, Centralia, Mt. Carmel, Oglesby and Chicago.

Dixon, Elgin and Rochelle are among a number of communities that have benefited greatly from the enlightened effort of city government which has co-operated wholeheartedly with private enterprise efforts. It is obvious from these examples that Illinois community leaders do not lack for ingenuity or drive once they are properly motivated. Unfortunately for many areas, however, the operation of local industrial development programs is haphazard and lackadaisical. Like the story about the weather, there are too many communities simply talking about industrial development but too few really doing anything about it. A leading industrial development authority from an Illinois utility serving a substantial portion of the state has said that only a small fraction of the communities in his territory are currently engaged in sound, comprehensive programs to attract industry.

It is for this reason that the economic development committee of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce has placed such a high priority on assisting and encouraging the development of sound local programs of industrial attraction. Some of the inaction we are aware of stems from lack of effective leadership or lethargy on the part of the entire community. Elsewhere, failure to act is the result of lack of knowledge. None of these factors is insurmountable but they must be overcome if the areas involved are to enjoy industrial growth commensurate with their capabilities.

My own assessment is that there has been a marked increase both in the number and the quality of active industrial development programs in the state. We are redoubling our efforts in the Illinois State Chamber to continue this favorable trend and to increase the rate of improvement.

Very frankly, I am optimistic about Illinois' economic future provided (1) our state government does not harass business with unwieldy regulations and taxes, (2) private groups continue to give impetus to local industrial development activities by means of broad-based financial support and energetic leadership and (3) local communities take steps to get their local facilities in shape to serve new industry. The task of keeping pace with the rest of the nation will not be easy. We have, however, the tools, the know-how and the leadership to more than hold our own. I issue a call to leaders of every community in Illinois to make sure their locality is doing all it can to meet the challenge we face.

(Next article (fourth and last) will deal with "Pitfalls Facing Local Industrial Development Efforts").

1,000 Attend Dinner To Open Wood's Campaign

State Representative Warren Wood, R., Plainfield, was given a rousing send-off last Thursday night in his campaign for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor when 1,000 persons attended a recognition dinner in his honor.

The fund-raising affair was attended by residents of his Will County legislative district as well as by fellow legislators and Republican county chairmen and other party leaders from throughout the state.

Wood has served the Will County district as representative since 1934 with the exception of one two-year term when he served in the U.S. Navy in World War II.

His service as speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives in the 1951, 1953, 1955 and 1957 sessions is a record for consecutive service in this important position.

Among those present and paying tribute to Wood's record of legislative service were Speaker of the House John W. Lewis, Jr. of Marshall and Senator Arthur J. Bidwill of River Forest, president pro tem of the Illinois Senate.

Representative Wood is running for lieutenant governor on a platform stressing his abilities and extensive knowledge of Illinois state government. He is vice-president of the Union National Bank & Trust Company of Joliet and a farm operator.

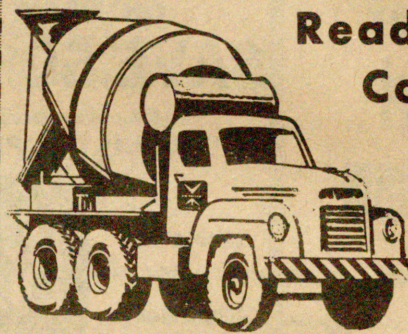

There was a sizeable representation at the dinner from the area embracing New Lenox, Frankfort and Mokena.

October Was Hot And Dry

(CNS) -October was hot, dry and record breaking, according to the monthly report of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

The sizzling average temperature of 64.3 degrees was the hottest October on record. The old record, set in October of 1947, was 62.1 degrees.

Among six record hot days this October, was the 94 degrees registered on the 6th, which was the highest temperature ever recorded so late in the year.

Sacred Heart Student Will Publish Essay

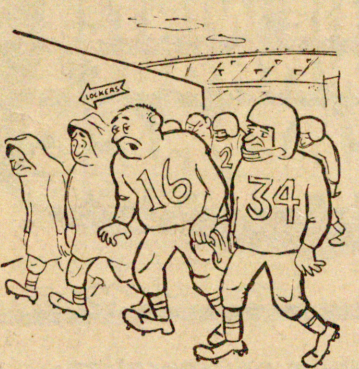

An essay, "Value of a Good Education," by Barbara Keebler, 5035 W. 151st St., Oak Forest, is scheduled for publication in the Chicago Tribune's Voice of Youth column on Sunday, Nov. 17.

Miss Keebler is a junior at Sacred Heart High school, Mokena.

Each week, essays by two Chicago area high school students are printed in each neighborhood section of the Tribune.

This is Miss Keebler's second contribution to be accepted by the Voice of Youth editor.

The Voice of Youth, edited by Genevieve Flavin, was started seven years ago to give high school students an opportunity to find expression in the printed word and to further the exchange of ideas between students themselves and their elders.

"I trace it all back to the moment we dashed out on the field to face 'em."

Other record days were the 16th, 23rd, 24th, 25th and 26th, which soared to record October temperatures for those dates. In fact, there were 13 days in October which registered more than 80 degrees, also a record.

While no general killing frost occurred in Chicago during the month, there was some spotty frost reported away from Lake Michigan on the 13th, 14th, 28th, 29th and 30th.

Precipitation was 2.16 inches below normal, following the recent trend, since 13 out of the last 15 months have also been below normal.

The greatest amount of rainfall for one day was recorded at the weather station at 6200 S. Cicero Ave., at .42 of one inch on the 19th.

The Working Classes

J. A. Ward

One of the greatest problems most people have when changing jobs is knowing how to put their best foot forward on a job interview. You may have all the qualifications in the world for a specific job but unless you present yourself properly, chances are you will be by-passed in favor of some other applicant.

In view of the millions of people who are going to be changing from "Deadend Jobs" to other types of work, the most important factor is that they know how to sell themselves when being interviewed or considered for new positions.

Whether you know it or not, when you go on an interview you become your own sales agent. Therefore, to do a good selling job, you must understand the fundamentals which are involved in your selling yourself. Basically, there are four appraisals which take place before the applicant has an opportunity to present his qualifications -- These basic steps are as follows:

- (1) The first appraisal is that the interviewer SEES you. During these first fleeting moments, you are appraised for your appearance, etc. . . . How YOU fit into the image every company (large or small) has in selecting its employees.
- (2) The second appraisal is that your interviewer HEARS you speak. Is your voice firm, soothing, or is it nervous and high-pitched?
- (3) The next appraisal is that the interviewer FEELS you when you shake hands. . . . Is your hand shake firm and dry -- or is your handshake weak and clammy??? (The one rule to always follow is to dry your hand quickly on your clothing just before shaking hands)
- (4) The last appraisal is made when the interviewer SMELLS you. . . too much perfume--tobacco odor -- body odor -- alcohol on your breath. . . . Any of these odors can be the cause of your not completing the interview.

All four of these important appraisals happen within a matter of seconds. . . without your applicant having an opportunity for rebuttal. If you pass the appraisal test, chances are you will be favorably considered for the new position.

If you fail to pass the appraisal test -- you may then be let down lightly with comments such as -- "if we're interested we'll call you. . . we're going to see more applicants. . . . job filled by another supervisor, sorry hadn't been informed" etc. THE DISAPPOINTING FACT IS THAT YOU DIDN'T GET THE JOB. SO RULE ONE IS TO MAKE CERTAIN YOU PASS THESE FOUR IMPORTANT APPRAISALS WITH FLYING COLORS ON YOUR NEXT JOB INTERVIEW.
